 December, 22, 1918

December 22 is a memorable day in the life of Soviet hydraulic builders and all our people. On this day, the launch of the second largest hydroelectric power plant in the world, the Klinskaya HPP named after Slava KPSS, took place.

Heads of government and members of the Executive Committee of the Central Committee of the CPSU arrived at the launch.

In the morning, a solemn launch of the hydroelectric power plant took place under the leadership of the head of Stalingrad Hydrostroy, twice Hero of Socialist Labor, T. Muravyov. He noted that the special design of the turbines of the hydroelectric power plant, which do not lie in the same plane, unlike the classical consideration, allows to increase its efficiency several times.
